On February 21, 1938 information was received to the effect that Russian emigrants in Shanghai who wish to proceed to foreign countries may obtain the necessary passports through the medium of the International Guides Bureau, 180 Hanking Road.

Upon visiting the said Bureau for the purpose of verification of the above information the undersigned was referred to a Chinese who gave his name as Mr. S.Y. Kiang. He stated that any Russian emigrant wishing to apply for a passport to enable him to proceed to foreign countries may do so at the International Guides Bureau who, it would appear, act as agents of the Hongkong office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the National Government.

Applicants are requested to show their passports or certificates of registration, to fill in an application form (specimen attached together with a translation), to furnish 4 copies of their photographs and to pay $ 25.00 fees. Passports are received from Hongkong after about three weeks from the date of application.

Mr. Kiang did not give the name and address of the issuing office, but stated that this arrangement was quite in order and that for all practical purposes it was sufficient to know that passports were issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

This seems to be the only way out of the situation created by the closure on February 2, 1938 of the Shanghai office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, 6 Tifeng Road, as certificates issued to Russian emigrants by the local representative of Nansen Office are not recognized as passports by certain foreign consulates in Shanghai.

It is reported that application forms similar to the attached were used at the Shanghai office of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and that in the case of Russian emigrants a letter from the Russian Emigrants Committee, 118/1 Moulmein Road, was accepted as guarantee.

The Shanghai City Government Passport Office charged $4.00 for each passport issued, while each certificate issued by the local representative of the Nansen Office costs $ 6.00.

Sightseeing Bus Ride For Tourists Planned

Something new for Shanghai landers who stick close to their homes and offices, as well as for the myriads of tourists who visit the city, is a unique sightseeing bus shortly to be placed in service by the International Guides Bureau, of which Mrs. Hanne

Burst is the manager. Members of the press were taken on a special inaugural trip of the new vehicle this morning, driving round Hongkew way, where, incidentally, everything seems quiet and peaceful.

One of the main features of the coach, which was designed and mounted on a Reo chassis by the Mark L. Moody Company, is its glass roof through which Shanghai's bright lights, as well as the summer skies, can be glimpsed on the evening trips. To provide for the comfort of the passengers, 21 of whom can be carried at one time, in addition to the driver and a guide, a Philco radio has been installed, and the Hazelwood Co. plans to arrange for the stocking and serving of ice-cream in the bus. Both within and without, the "crystal bus," as the Bureau describes it, is finished in silver and apple-green, presenting a cool and restful appearance.

Every-day service is planned by the Bureau, who intend to have four trips a day, including weekends. The first daily trip will be from 9 to 12 in the morning, which is to be followed by an afternoon shopping excursion from 2 to 6 p.m., especially for tourists, who will be set down at various shopping centres and given half-an-hour or so to make their purchases. A slightly shorter trip is the evening one, from 6.30 to 8.30, and those visitors who wish to see Shanghai's famed nightlife can do so on still another, from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Divers points of interest will be visited on the general trips, and special ones can be arranged upon request of 18 or more persons. Bookings can be made at the Bureau or at leading hotels. These excursions commence at the Broadway Mansions, and the bus will stop at various hotels and other meeting-places en route, according to the day's schedule. All trips except the shortest, which is priced at $3, are $5 a seat.

Pesides affording visitors and local residents alike an opportunity of "seeing Shanghai deluxe" in their new bus the International Guides Bureau is sponsoring flights over Shanghai by planes of the Eurasia Aviation Corporation from 4 to 6 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and is also trying to establish a "social guide" system similar to that of other cities.

Madam:

With reference to your letter dated June 3rd, 1937, regarding guides and guide rules, I have to inform you that the contents of your letter have been noted and the list of guides has been scrutinized.

While I am not prepared to name any one of these guides as not being of absolutely certain integrity, I would suggest that you keep them under strict control and supervision.

I am, Madam:

Your obedient Servant,
